This little event was a complete surprise to me! Despite the fact that it's been an annual event for the last 37 years, I haven't heard of it. I scoured the Internet and the Hampton's website, and only found an incomplete AOPA article, short on details, dated 2007. No help there. The one sentence I did find about the Flea Market is, "No FEES Sell/Buy aviation parts, projects, aircraft, collectibles, books. Show your aviation services.No rain date." Huh.

So I sent off a few emails and they came back with a nice little surprise. From Mike Hart, the Owner:

"The 37th annual Aviation flea market, May 15th & 16th is open to anyone who wants to sell or buy aviation items. There are no fees and most sellers sell out of their vehicles with a table they provide themselves. Weather permitting there are usually a large number of aircraft that fly in for the day. Many aircraft are "for sale" and aviation dealers are welcome for any products or aircraft. We do not allow non aviation items. There is normally about 30 - 40 "vendors" that attend and about 1500 people that drive or fly in. Biplane and Helicopter rides are available. Light Sport aircraft dealers for Sport Cruiser, Flight Design CTS, and Legend Cub will be represented. All are welcome.

The EAA chapter on our airport puts on a pancake breakfast starting a 8AM and our Airfield Cafe is open all day for breakfast & lunch. There are many eating establishments on US Route 1.

This is a 2 day event with no rain date. Obviously the best weather day will bring the highest turn out.

Pass the word around and come and enjoy the day.

Mike Hart - Owner"

So start digging around for those aviation items you can do without, pack them in a box, and bring them out- you may make a buck or two off them! You also might find something you've been looking for but just can't find!

Note

This is a two-day event. I've posted it separately on both days so that people can coordinate flights and rides over there.
